

News & Information from ATP
Volume 23, Issue 4

Save the Date: Europe-ATP 2024 Conference in Berlin!

Europe-ATP 2024 is set to take place in the vibrant city of Berlin, Germany on October 23-25. The conference venue will be the prestigious Hilton Berlin, located in the heart of the Mitte district, adjacent to the iconic Gendarmenmarkt cathedrals and the renowned Rausch chocolate shop. This central location places iconic landmarks such as Checkpoint Charlie, Brandenburg Gate, and the Berlin Wall within a convenient three-kilometer radius!

[\[Read More Here\]](#)

ATP Launches New Monthly Coffee Chats

The Association of Test Publishers (ATP) has introduced a valuable initiative for professional development – monthly virtual coffee chats geared towards newer professionals. Facilitated by Nena Hollis, the Director of Communications for ATP, these casual discussions aim to provide younger and newer professionals in the assessment industry with insights from industry experts.

[\[Read more here\]](#)

The TBA Committee Launches a Blog Series for Challenges and Best Practices in Digital Assessment

ATP's Committee on Technology-based Assessment recently launched a blog series to highlight key challenges in the assessment lifecycle and introduce the Guidelines for Technology-based Assessment in the context of these challenges, illustrating how they can be useful. The series now includes 5 articles available on ATP's website.

[\[Read More Here\]](#)

Asia ATP's Conference Soars to New Heights in 2023!

Asia ATP's highly anticipated in-person conference, "Stepping into the Future! The Next Growth of Asian Testing and Education," held on October 23-24, 2023, in Sanya, Hainan, China, was a resounding success that brought together nearly 200 participants from 10 countries and regions. The conference served as a dynamic platform for professionals, educators, employers, researchers, and industry leaders to exchange ideas, present cutting-edge developments, and forge valuable connections.

[\[Read More Here\]](#)

ATP Initiates New Subcommittee for AI-Based Assessment

The Association of Test Publishers (ATP) is planning to establish a new subcommittee specifically dedicated to AI-based assessment. This strategic move aims to closely monitor developments in the rapidly evolving field of artificial intelligence and assess the potential for establishing best practices. The primary goal of this subcommittee is to stay at the forefront of advancements in AI and ensure that ATP is well-equipped to navigate the challenges and opportunities that arise in the realm of assessment.

[\[Read More Here\]](#)

ATP MEMBERS...Did you know that if you log into the ATP website and then click on Member Benefits and Discounts under your name tag, you can find discount codes for all Conferences, Summits and Webinars? These codes are updated for every event every year.

Contact Info:

ATP

www.testpublishers.org

+1 (717) 755-9747

Nena.Hollis@testpublishers.org